Chairman's Message

N. Venkatesh, Chair,
IEEE Hyderabad Section

The IEEE strives hard to live up to its objective of Advancing Technology for Humanity, and one of its initiatives towards this is in the area of public policy. Recognizing the crucial role of Governments in the use of technology to drive economic prosperity and improve quality of life, IEEE has put together a Global Public Policy Committee under the chairmanship of Dr. Gordon Day. I, along with other Section Chairs and members of the India Council, met Dr. Day and got an update of IEEE's efforts in coordinating public policy initiatives. We all have an opportunity here to offer our own ideas and put them forth as proposals to the Government via IEEE.

Examples are on a policy to encourage and facilitate the ownership and operation of electric vehicles in India, to nurture entrepreneurship for rural development, etc. I urge you all to consider ways in which Government can make a positive impact and send those thoughts over. For the first time, Vizag played host to an international technical conference – the International Conference on Intelligent Systems and Green Technology, organized largely by the Vizag Bay Subsection. It was encouraging to see the quality of innovation in the papers presented, and we hope the conference series would continue successfully in the future.

Our Section will be playing host to visitors from across India at the All India Students, Young Professionals, and Women in Engineering Conference (AISYWC) in September. We hope this will enable the coming together of these critical segments of IEEE membership and discuss ways of enabling professional advancement of all.

I'll always be glad to hear from you at chairman@ieeehyd.org.

Best wishes,
Venkatesh
